TAX BURDEN ON FARM LANDS IS CUT UNDER LAW

State Tax Department Says Valuation Is Reduced $228,091,412

OTHERS INCREASED

Change in Burden on Various Classes of Property for Last Several Years Told

The state tax department today gave out a comparative statement covering the assessed valuation of each class of property in the state for the year 1922 and 1923. This statement shows the result of the basis of assessment law passed by the 1923 legislative assembly.

Under the classification law of 1919 farm lands, town and city lots, business structures, railroad property and property of other public utilities, bank stock, flour mills, elevators, warehouses and storehouses and all buildings and improvements upon railroad rights of way were required to be assessed at 100 percent of full and true value. All other property was required to be assessed at 50 percent of full and true value. This included most classes of personal property and structures used for homes located upon town and city lots.

Under the exemption laws passed in 1919 structures and improvements on farm lands were exempt from taxation and liberal exemptions were allowed on homes occupied by the owner and four classes of personal property—farm machinery, household goods, clothing and tools or a working man or mechanic. In 1921 the exemption on homes was reduced from $1000 to $500 and the exemption on farm tools and equipment of a farmer from $1000 to $500. The exemption of $300 on household goods, clothing and tools of a working man or mechanic remained unchanged.

Farm Burden Changed

The result of the taxation laws of 1919 was to increase the tax burden on farm lands to a very large extent. In 1917 the assessed valuation of farm lands was 52.68 percent of the total assessed valuation of the state, and the assessed valuation of improvements on farm lands 3.12 percent of the total, the total assessed valuation of farm real property being 55.80 percent of the total. In 1918 the assessed valuation of farm real property was 53.51 percent of the total and 1919 after the absolute exemption of structures and improvements on farm lands the assessed valuation of farm real property was 70.84 percent of the total assessed valuation. The shift of the tax burden from other property to farm lands was most keenly felt in those taxing districts where the school districts embraced both the city and country. The $1000 exemption allowed on homes in 1919 and 1920, and the fact that homes were assessable at only 50 percent of the balance after the deduction of the $1000 exemption left a very small tax base in many villages and cities, and the consequence was a tremendous shift of the school tax burden to farm lands in these particular school districts, embracing both city and country.

The classification law of 1919 and the exemption laws in effect since that date produced a tremendous amount of dissatisfaction and consequently, the 1923 legislative assembly went back to the taxation system in force in this state for over 30 years. Under the basis of assessment law passed in 1923 all taxable property in this state is assessed at the same percentage of full and true value. Each dollar's worth of taxable property in the same taxing district now bears the same percentage of tax burden. All special exemption laws were repealed by the 1923 legislative assembly with the single exemption of structures and improvements on farm lands. The usual exemptions on public, charitable and lodge property still stand.

Result of Basis

The general result of the basis of assessment law of 1923 was, of course, to reduce the tax burden on all property in class one and increase the tax burden on all property formerly in class two. The total assessed valuation of the state has decreased $228,091,412. The assessed valuation of farm lands decreased $228,091,412. The assessed valuation of city and village real property increased $1,850,431. The assessment on town and city lots and business structures being increased and the assessment on residence structures being decreased. Farm real property in 1923 constituted 61.98 percent of the total assessed valuation of the state as compared with 53.73 percent in 1922. City and village real property is 10.14 percent of the total assessed valuation of the state as compared with 8.31 percent in 1922. Personal property bears 13.31 percent of the tax burden as compared with 6.72 percent in 1922. Corporation property including railroad, express, telegraph, telephone, sleeping car, street railway and electric transmission line property bears 14.56 percent as compared with 16.24 percent.

GERMANY FACING SITUATION THAT BROUGHT RUSSIA TO HER PRESENT PLIGHT, SAYS JACOB ROTHSCHILLER

Hunger and Starvation, With Possible Revolution, May Be Fate of German People, He Declares in an Interview—Believes German People's Steadiness Will Prevent Revolution—Declares Aid Is Greatly Needed Abroad

Germany today is just where Russia was—starvation and revolution is facing her. Jacob Rothschiller, president of the North Dakota Relief Association, who has just returned from a 13-month relief mission abroad, declared in an interview. Communism will not succeed in Germany as it has in Russia, Mr. Rothschiller believes.

"The Germans have sense," he said. "But if revolution comes—with hunger and starvation pressing down upon the people—what will happen I don't know. You know, hunger is a hard thing." There is still need for relief in Russia, he said, though Russia has had a fine crop this year and has exported wheat to Germany. The lack of medical supplies, he said. Mr. Rothschiller saw Europe at its worst on his trip. He left Bismarck October 3, 1922 and arrived November 3, 1923—was absent 13 months. During that time he distributed $200,000 worth of footstuffs and clothing either given as such as purchased with funds of the North Dakota Relief Association. He visited Germany, Russia, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Poland.

Right now, he said, Germany was in the worst way of any country in Europe. Hungary and Austria are bad and so is Russia. Czechoslovakia, born of the war, Bomania and Poland are in better shape—they have all the foodstuffs they need, Mr. Rothschiller said.

Now the time to help. Mr. Rothschiller hopes to see Germany given American aid.

"Now is the time they need help," he said. "There is lot of unemployment. The factories can't buy raw materials—they haven't the money. A man who has two or three children can hardly earn enough to buy them bread."

When Mr. Rothschiller landed in Germany he received 4,000,000 marks for one American dollar. When he left the quotation was one billion marks for one dollar. It is the depreciation of the mark that has wrecked havoc on Germany, he said. Mr. Rothschiller was in the Ruhr, the present storm center of Germany. He did distribute clothing and other necessities in Berlin, Hamburg and other places. He thinks that France will not collect reparations from Germany, for the industrial life has been squeezed out of her.

Russia, in the opinion of Mr. Rothschiller, will recuperate rapidly. He thinks that Trotsky and other leaders of the Soviet mean all right, but said that hundreds of mistakes had crept into power in the revolution, and that it was the lesser officers that caused terror and misery.

"I didn't have much talk against the government—they're afraid to talk," he remarked.

Suffering in Russia

He saw a great deal of suffering in Russia, he said—people with nothing to eat, no clothing. American aid, he said, had won the everlasting gratitude of the Russian people. The Russians, since their good crop this year, have helped the Germans, he said. "It is because they were helped when they were hungry and not for political reasons," he said.

Many Russian hospitals are without medicine, he said. Even in one hospital he saw children lying on straw mattresses, without beds.

During his long trip Mr. Rothschiller showed moving pictures of North Dakota, taken by the North Dakota immigration department. On his return to Bismarck he lectured in Elizabeth, N. J. and St. Paul. Carl Wishek of Ashley accompanied him on the trip. They separated after they came out of Russia, where they were for four months. Mr. Wishek is going to Germany to visit relatives and Mr. Rothschiller going to Hungary.

Predicts Immigration

Mr. Rothschiller declared that the United States was the promised land at this time, and he predicted a big immigration to North Dakota not only from thrifty people abroad but from the east, from sections where he showed the moving pictures of the North Dakota Immigration Department.

ADJUSTING OF ACREAGE HELD FARMER'S NEED

With Cooperative Marketing It Offers Best Hope for Future, Says Meyer

ASKS SOUND POLICY

Directors of War Finance Corporation Report to Coolidge After Long Trip

Washington, Nov. 5.—Co-operative marketing and ready adjustment of acreage to conditions of the world production were recommended as promising the only permanent solution of the wheat problem in a report submitted to President Coolidge by the War Finance Corporation investigators who recently toured the wheat areas at his request.

Urging the maintenance of "a thoroughly rational attitude" in dealing with the problem the report submitted by Directors Eugene Meyer, Jr., and Frank Mondell discussed numerous other proposals presented during the study but which they found generally either unsound or to offer no permanent solution.

The proposals advanced in the report already have been discussed by the two officials with Mr. Coolidge and may form the basis of an administrative policy on the question.

Co-operative marketing associations "organized along sound lines and with competent management and business guidance," the report said, "offer at the present time in our opinion more promise of helpful results than any other plan or program that has been suggested. They can do what the speculator cannot with safety be relied on to do. They can by orderly marketing, regulate the flow of wheat so that supply is adjusting from time to time to consumptive demands."

"With the changed condition in Europe, with the European dealers and millers carrying only a small percentage of their normal wheat stocks and with the speculator anxious or unwilling to carry wheat in sufficient volume the producer must organize to carry it himself."

Added to this conclusion was the other that there must be "adjustment of production to American needs if the world market is oversupplied."

Chief among the causes of depression among the wheat farmers were found to be the local tax burdens, the scarcity and high cost of labor and existing freight rates on grain. As a measure to relieve the first it was recommended that tax exempt securities be abolished and the higher brackets of the federal income surtaxes which were held to encourage investors to place money in such securities, be reduced. The tax exempt securities, the report said, had encouraged states, counties and municipalities to "make extravagant expenditures."

OF NO HELP

Minneapolis, Nov. 5.—The Mandell Meyer report recommending co-operative marketing as the chief solution to stabilize agricultural conditions in the wheat growing states is economically sound but is of no use to the farmers in their present emergency, according to J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation.

New York, Nov. 5.—World Court Week was inaugurated today. In compliance with a suggestion of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America, the week will be observed throughout the country by a program of education in support of the late President Harding's plea that America become a member of the World Court. Next Sunday, Armistice day, has been designated as World Court Sunday.

The Federated Council of Churches is seeking the support of the press, churches, civic organizations, schools, patriotic and fraternal societies in carrying out the week's program. The Council also is asking that during the week all voters who favor America's participation in the World Court write to their congressmen urging their support.

Val. Gardner Testifies in Corroboration of Charges in Fifth Count

Oklahoma City, Nov. 5.—Val Gardner, formerly a citizen of Tonkawa, Okla., appeared before the house investigating committee of the Oklahoma legislature Sunday and testified in corroboration of the charges in the fifth count of the impeachment bill, against J. C. Walton, suspended governor, according to members of the committee. This count alleges that Governor Walton received $6,000 from the citizens of Tonkawa in return for which he permitted the appropriation for the Tonkawa school to remain unimproved.

Gardner testified that the money—six one thousand dollar bills—was drawn from the Security National bank of Tonkawa and delivered to him. He gave the money to A. D. Snodgrass, an employee of the Oklahoma state highway department, Gardner added, the legislators said.

A call for the condition of state banks at close of business, October 31, was issued today by State Examiner Gilbert Semington.

NORTH DAKOTA WINS FAVOR IN CONVENTION

A. F. Bradley, Secretary of A. C., Shows Exhibit to Men at Convention

Commercial organization secretaries from every state in the union, particularly from financial centers where many North Dakota projects are financed, expressed surprise at the extent of resources and their development in North Dakota, A. F. Bradley, secretary of the Association of Commerce, who took an exhibit with him to the convention of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries at Cincinnati said today. Mr. Bradley has just returned from the convention.

The exhibit included crops, potatoes and other agricultural products; samples of clay products, pictures of coal development, photos of the Badlands and other rugged country of the state and Bismarck. A particular effort was made, Mr. Bradley said, to reach commercial secretaries from eastern financial centers who, through committee and other work, are brought in contact with financial houses which invest heavily in North Dakota.

North Dakota was definitely established as a corn belt state in the minds of many secretaries, he said. The Badlands pictures attracted wide attention, he said. The name, Badlands, Mr. Bradley believes, is a misnomer. He said that many believed the section an uninteresting desert section. The pictures of Pyramid Park, the petrified forest and other beauties and marvels of the Badlands brought forth exclamations of approval, he said. He urged the advertising of the Badlands as a distinct asset in attracting tourists. The National Parks Highway organization, he said, in its next campaign will feature the Badlands. The Northern Pacific is giving much advertising to the section.

Mr. Bradley brought home with him for consideration of A. C. committees and secretaries information of the latest developments in community chest work, city planning and zoning, linking of the farm and city and trade development in cities of size comparable to Bismarck, in all parts of the country.

An audience that filled the auditorium listened to the lecture and saw the pictures by Mr. Rothschiller Saturday night. The evening's program opened with pictures of the work on which Mr. Rothschiller sailed to Europe, and continued through Europe, first showing a few points in England, and then passed on into Germany, Austria, and Russia.

An intimate picture of living conditions in Europe, particularly of the life of the children in Europe were shown. The orphanages, the schools in the forests, the hospitals, and even pictures of harvest scenes in Germany were thrown upon the screen. Many of these apparently were familiar to the audience for gasps of "ah, oh, isn't that natural, or that's just like I remember" were heard in the audience.

As the pictures were thrown upon the screen Mr. Rothschiller described the scenes which he had seen and told of the depreciation of the value of the mark and ruble even while he visited in Europe.

He begged that the people of this country do everything they could to alleviate the suffering of the Russians, the Germans, and the middle Europeans whom he visited and found in dire poverty. He also spoke feelingly of the heartfelt thanks expressed by the Europeans for the stock and money which they had already sent them as relief.

United States Department Is Informed of Attitude of 3 Nations

Washington, Nov. 5.—State department advice today indicated that Great Britain, Italy and Belgium have reached an accord favoring a free and full reparations inquiry by an expert committee.

In effect the position of these three governments as understood here coincides with that taken by the United States and opposes the stand for a restricted inquiry taken only by France.

This development indicating an entirely new alignment of the European allies over the reparation question appeared to stimulate hope that the French too would accept a restricted program of inquiry rather than risk diplomatic isolation. Witherto-for both Belgium and Italy have followed the French lead affecting reparation.

Administration spokesmen declined today to indicate the probable attitude of the Washington government in case the French government maintains its position.

STATE'S BANK CUTS 'RED' OFF ITS LEDGER

Profits Made Under Management of C. R. Green Put in Better Condition

NOW SHOWS PROFIT

The Bank of North Dakota has moved from the deficit side of the ledger to the profit side, according to the monthly balance sheet of the bank now shown. The books of the bank now show a profit of $12,717.00.

When the bank was taken under the management of C. R. Green on December 15, 1921, it showed a deficit on its books, according to the audit of Bishop, Brisman and Company of $349,377.07, of which $141,059.90 was charged as deficit and the balance as "interest earned but uncollected" which was charged off the bank's books as uncollectible.

There has been a steady decrease in the deficit on the books of the bank under Mr. Green's management. The last public statement, as of September 8, 1923, showed a net loss over earnings of $35,356.64. The statement of the bank as of September 8 showed that the following items were carried as resources: repossessions to close banks, $220,985.80; loans to banks closed, $410,295.65; receivers' certificates proof of claims, $332,620.67, or a total of $1,563,837.11. The items are carried as resources since no final settlement has been possible, nor can the items be charged off because a total loss is not expected.

The fact that the bank now shows a profit on its books in comparison to a huge deficit when Mr. Green took over the management of the bank is declared by state officials to be a tribute to the management of the institution under Mr. Green.

The profits of the bank which have offset the deficit have arisen from the usual course of business and a part of it from premiums on bond sales.

McKinley's Protege Comes Back on Stage

New York, Nov. 3.—Mabel McKinley, protegee of the late president McKinley, has come back!

Little news to the youngsters of today, for they may not remember the former vaudeville head and successful singer whose voice used to echo musically through the halls of the White House during her once administration.

Her return to the stage is a full of meaning to those who remember her of former days.

"Isn't that just like a career?" she asks in a mix of laugh. "It makes you come back no matter how happy your home may be, and then it reminds you when it's too late in heart out."

You have come to hear her speak in terms of glowing praise of her husband, Dr. Baer, and of her adopted son, to know that her domestic life has few flaws.

"Not that I have been idle," she explains. "I haven't. Besides my home, I've been studying—ever so hard, and teaching, and bridging the gap between vaudeville and concert."

The tax exempt securities, the report said, had encouraged states, counties and municipalities to "make extravagant expenditures."

OP NO HELP

Minnesota, Nov. 5.—The Mondell-Meyer report recommending co-operative marketing as the chief solution to stabilize agricultural conditions in the wheat growing states is economically sound but is of no use to the farmers in their present emergency, according to J. F. Reed, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation.

OBSERVE WORLD COURT WEEK

New York, Nov. 5.—World Court Week was inaugurated today. In compliance with a suggestion of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America, the week will be observed throughout the country by a program of education in support of the late President Harding's plea that America become a member of the World Court. Next Sunday, Armistice day, has been designated as World Court Sunday.

The Federated Council of Churches is seeking the support of the press, churches, civic organizations, schools, patriotic and fraternal societies in carrying out the week's program. The Council also is asking that during the week all voters who favor America's participation in the World Court write to their congressmen urging their support.

WARD REAL STAR

New York, Nov. 5.—The play of Second Baseman Aaron Ward of the Yankees, in the recent world series stamps him as the best player at that position in the American League with the possible exception of Eddie Collins. Since Ward has just arrived, and Collins is fast going the other way, Ward is the more valuable. And to think New York tried to trade Bob Meusel and Ward for Collins last year.

Federal Judge Andrew Miller has gone to Rochester, Minnesota, from Fargo for medical treatment, according to information reaching friends here. He is unable at this time to have been superintended by a physician incident to his duties as federal judge.

Received Payment of Money and Did Not Trim Appropriation, Testimony

SOLONS HEAR TALE Val. Gardner Testifies in Corroboration of Charges in Fifth Count

Oklahoma City, Nov. 5.—Val Gardner, formerly a citizen of Tonkawa, Okla., appeared before the house investigating committee of the Oklahoma legislature Sunday and testified in corroboration of the charges in the fifth count of the impeachment bill, against J. C. Walton, suspended governor, according to members of the committee. This count alleges that Governor Walton received $6,000 from the citizens of Tonkawa in return for which he permitted the appropriation for the Tonkawa school to remain untrammelled.

Gardner testified that the money—six one thousand dollar bills—was drawn from the Security National bank of Tonkawa and delivered to him. He gave the money to A. D. Snodgrass, an employee of the Oklahoma state highway department. Gardner added, the legislators said.

The Golden Rule—Does it Pay?

leaves you to answer this question yourself. Having read, probably you will say it depends on the man. To Daniel Gilchrist, who sacrificed riches, love, safety, everything, material, to a spiritual ideal, the Golden Rule did pay. But to Jerry Goodkind—worldling cynic, libertine—Gilchrist seemed

NORTH DAKOTA WINS FAVOR IN CONVENTION

A. F. Bradley, Secretary of A. C., Shows Exhibit to Men at Convention

Commercial organization secretaries from every state in the union, particularly from financial centers where many North Dakota projects are financed, expressed agreeable surprise at the extent of resources and their development in North Dakota. A. F. Bradley, secretary of the Association of Commerce, who took an exhibit with him to the convention of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries at Cincinnati said today. Mr. Bradley has just returned from the convention.

The exhibit included coal, potatoes and other agricultural products; samples of clay products, pictures of coal development, photos of the Badlands and other major concerns of the state and Bismarck. A particular effort was made, Mr. Bradley said, to reach commercial secretaries from eastern financial centers who, through committee and other work, are brought in contact with financial houses which invest heavily in North Dakota.

North Dakota was definitely established as a corn belt state in the minds of many secretaries, he said. The Badlands pictures attracted wide attention, he said. The name Badlands, Mr. Bradley believes, is a misnomer. He said that many believed the section an uninteresting desert section. The pictures of Pyramid Park, the petrified forest and other beauties and marvels of the Badlands brought forth exclamations of approval, he said. He urged the advertising of the Badlands as a distinct asset in attracting tourists. The National Parks Highway organization, he said, in its next campaign will feature the Badlands. The Northern Pacific is giving much advertising to the section.

Mr. Bradley brought home with him for consideration of A. C. committees and secretaries information of the latest developments in community chest work, city planning and zoning, linking of the farm and city and trade development in cities of size comparable to Bismarck, in all parts of the country.

KLAN LOSES INJUNCTION

Federal Court Refuses to Bar Printing of Articles

BIG CROWD AT CORN FESTIVAL

Valley City, N. D., Nov. 5.—Nearly 5,000 people visited Valley City Saturday to attend the first annual Fall Festival. Over $400 in cash prizes were awarded for corn and dairy exhibits which packed one entire building. A pure bred Holstein heifer worth $500 was given away to William Martin of Rogers, N. D., who held number 941, the lucky number. All visitors in the city as well as town folk, were allowed to register at the "heifer stand."

FAVOR FULL INQUIRY ON REPARATIONS

Great Britain, Italy and Belgium Reach an Accord on Proposed Inquiry

OPPOSE FRENCH STAND United States Department Is Informed of Attitude of 3 Nations

Washington, Nov. 5.—State department advices today indicated that Great Britain, Italy and Belgium have reached an accord favoring a free and full reparations inquiry by an expert committee.

In effect the position of these three governments as understood here coincides with that taken by the United States and opposes the stand for a restricted inquiry taken only by France.

This development indicating an entirely new alignment of the European allies over the reparation question appeared to stimulate hope that the French too would accept an unrestricted program of inquiry rather than risk diplomatic isolation. Hitherto France and Belgium and Italy have followed the French lead affecting reparation.

Administration spokesmen declined today to indicate the probable attitude of the Washington government in case the French government maintains its position.

STATE'S BANK CUTS 'RED' OFF ITS LEDGER

Profits Made Under Management of C. R. Green Put Banks in Better Condition

Now Shows Profit

The Bank of North Dakota has moved from the deficit side of the ledger to the profit side, according to the monthly balance sheet of the bank as of November 1. The books of the bank now show a profit of $12,717.00.

When the bank was taken under the management of C. R. Green on December 15, 1921, it showed a deficit on its books, according to the books of Bishop, Brissman and Company of $49,277.07, of which $141,059.90 was charged as deficit and the balance as "interest earned but uncollected" which was charged off the bank's books as uncollectible.

There has been a steady decrease in the deficit on the books of the bank under Mr. Green's management. The last public statement, as of September 8, 1923, showed a net loss over earnings of $38,356.64.

The statement of the bank as of September 8 showed that the following items were carried as resources: deposits to $1,000,000; loans to $2,000,000; bonds to $1,000,000; and other assets to $1,000,000. The total resources were $5,000,000. The liabilities were $4,987,282.96, leaving a profit of $12,717.00.

The fact that the bank now shows a profit on its books in comparison to a huge deficit when Mr. Green took over the management of the bank is declared by state officials to be a tribute to the management of the institution under Mr. Green.

The profits of the bank which have offset the deficit have arisen from the usual course of business and a part of it from premiums on bond sales.

McKinley's Protege Comes Back on Stage

By NEA Service

New York, Nov. 3.—Mabel McKinley, protegee of the late president McKinley, has come back.

Little news of the youngsters of today, for they may not remember the former vaudeville headliner and vicious singer whose voice used to echo musically through the halls of the White House during her uncle's administration.

Her return to the concert stage is full of meaning to those who remember her of former years.

"Isn't that just like a career?" she asks in a musical laugh. "It makes you come back, no matter how happy your home life may be, and then it terrifies you when it's too late to back out."

You have only to hear her speak in terms of glowing praise of her husband, Dr. Baer, and of her adopted son, to know that her domestic life has few flaws.

"Not that I have been idle," she explains. "I have been working as hard, and teaching, and helping the gap between vaudeville and concert."

NUPTIAL KNOT UNITES SWEDEN AND ENGLAND

Lady Mountbatten, Relative of King George, Weds Swedish Crown Prince

BRIDE IS POPULAR

Bridegroom Is Handsome Athlete as Are All Members of Royal Family

The stage already is set for the marriage of the late Queen Victoria of England and second cousin to King George, the crown prince of Sweden, is received with deep interest here. The Swedes are eager to meet the woman who some day will become their queen, and England is believed to be gratified at the new royal ties that bind Stockholm and London into still closer friendship.

Lady Louise is a sister of Lord Louis Mountbatten who last year married Miss Edwina Ashley, said to be one of the most beautiful women in England. Lord Louis and his bride spent part of their honeymoon in the United States.

It was an eventful wedding which led to the wedding in the Chapel Royal of St. James Palace. Scarcely had the news of Gustaf Adolf's engagement been announced when it was reported that certain authorities in Sweden opposed the marriage on the ground that Lady Louise was not of sufficiently high rank to marry the crown prince. Then, when the Swedish government was settling this question in favor of the bride-to-be, came the startling news that the press of foreign lands was broadcasting the tale that Lady Louise had changed her mind about becoming a crown princess anyway, and was going to marry an obscure English painter of modest income. But as the summer passed by these rumors were gradually discredited by the fact that Lady Louise and the Swedish Crown Prince were often seen together in England and France.

Spring From Austria

Lady Louise's father was Prince Louis of Battenberg, later known as the Marquis of Milford-Haven. The Battenberg family has sprung from Germany by way of Austria, where the title of prince was bestowed, and because of strained feeling in England during the war the name was anglicized to Mountbatten. Lady Louise, who is about 35 years old, is a typical aristocratic Englishman, a gracious, generous, alert, fond of dancing and outdoor sport, and gifted with genuine charm. She will captivate Sweden as she did the officers and sailors of the Swedish squadron visiting British waters when she came aboard the flagship escorted by the crown prince.

The Swedish Crown Prince, whose full name is Oskar Fredrik Wilhelm Olof-Gustaf Adolf, has been married before, his first wife having died some three years ago. Crown Princess Margret, daughter of the Duke of Connaught and Princess of Great Britain and Ireland, had borne Gustaf Adolf five children, and her death was a great bereavement to the Swedish people.

Bridegroom Is 41

Gustaf Adolf is now 41 years of age, more than six feet tall, as are all the men of the Swedish royal family, and vigorous as an athlete. Indeed he is the possessor of the "athletic medal" awarded only for high proficiency in at least five different branches of sport in Sweden. This is perhaps not strange, nor is it strange that he is a military leader, and that he should have commanded one of his country's armies in the field maneuvers which ended only two weeks before the wedding. But it may surprise many to learn that the Swedish crown prince is also a serious archaeologist, with several expeditions to his credit. Last year he spent nearly two months personally directing the excavation of the buried Greek town of Assene, and unearthed many precious relics that shed light on the civilization of 3,000 years ago. He is, moreover, a collector of paintings, especially of the work of modern artists, such as Anders Zorn and Carl Larsson. Gustaf Adolf is very Democratic and, consequently, popular with the masses in Sweden. His political aims and principles, like those of his father, are sound and constructive. The wedding in London will be attended by both King George of England and King Gustaf of Sweden. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Italy.

Open Oakland Has Closed Car Comforts

To meet the demand for closed car comfort in open car models, the Oakland Motor Car company has made special provision on the new 1923 models.

Because it has become less and less customary in recent years for owners to drive with the top down and because a permanent top permits the embodying of many features that make for more perfect weather-proof construction, Oakland has adopted this type of top on all open models.

The most noteworthy and obvious benefit obtained from the permanent top construction is the better protection against rain and wind. The permanent top construction permits the forming of a ledge along the lower edge of the top and against this ledge the curtains are closed in such a way as to give a weather-tight fit without the use of fasteners of any sort.

The curtains are supported upon the doors on double rods that form this joint along the ledge of the top and hold the curtains from wrinkling or sagging. The curtains open and

Governor Defeated in His Latest Move Against Impeachment Proceedings

Oklahoma City, Nov. 3.—Defeated in his latest illegal maneuver against the impeachment action instituted by the lower house of the state legislature, Governor J. C. Walton must go to trial November 8 on at least the 22 charges of official misconduct contained in the indictment against him.

This was ordered by the senate court of impeachment which overruled the executive's demurrer to 12 articles of the impeachment bill at the close of the hearing last night. November 7 was set as the date for the Governor to enter his formal plea and the following day the actual trial will begin.

BRITISH LABORERS DECREASE

London, Nov. 2.—There has been a general flight of laborers from the land according to figures of the ministry of agriculture, which show that on June 4, 1923 there were 772,000 laborers employed in England and Wales as compared with 849,000 in 1921.

BANDITS ENTER POSTOFFICE AT ANOKA, MINN.

Get Stamps and Cash When They Rife Postoffice During Night

Anoka, Minn., Nov. 3.—Several robbers broke into the Anoka postoffice about 3 o'clock this morning, broke down several doors, wrecked the large safe and escaped with a large amount of stamps and cash. Just how much the thieves got postoffice officials were unwilling to say but it was intimated the loot was "large."

At about the same time the robbery was taking place, Fred Bender, night patrolman, exchanged several shots with a stranger he saw lurking near the Congregational church across the street from the postoffice. While searching for the man Bender saw a light in the postoffice building. He summoned the chief of police and they went to investigate, but when they reached the building they found the robbers, believed to number three, had fled.

Other than stating that there was an attempted robbery and no loot was taken the police chief refused to divulge any information. Postoffice officials, however, admitted a large amount of stamps and some cash was taken.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

WHEN YOU GO

Steinmetz is gone from the news—and almost forgotten by the public. Scientists, of course, will remember him and speak his name with reverence long after all the politicians of our generation will be as forgotten as King Tut's under-taker.

Gone from the news, yes. But we cannot forget him editorially. Especially we cannot forget that the intellect of Steinmetz—a far more useful and helpful intellect than that of Socrates—was taken from a three-dimensional world that badly needed it, when Steinmetz was only 58 years old.

Only! You may wonder why we use the "only." Principally because very few men become really "worth while" before they are 60. Intellect—genius—requires aging, like wine.

The career of Steinmetz included 58 years, in which he was reaching toward a goal. He made valuable discoveries, of course, but he never reached his goal.

That is the way of life. Nature seems to be jealous, in a sense. At least, she removes us from the stage when we begin to know too much. We seem to be destined to live in confusion and ignorance of the Real Purpose of Life. Get too close to the answer, and . . . well, it's like Steinmetz: sudden and unexpected death.

You read about the theatrical scientists trying to make nonentities live to extremely old age by gland transplanting and so on. The nonentities can pay for it.

Did you ever stop to consider what it would mean to make a man like Steinmetz live to be, say, 500 years old?

Nature, of course, will not stand for it. We live in confusion, in bewilderment, and there's no escaping.

DETECTIVE WORK

The mummy of old King Tut will be examined with the X-ray to find out how old he was when he died, also to check up the number of years since the Egyptian undertakers dried him for morbidly curious later generations.

Thus the ancient past makes contact with the fantastic super-science of our generation. Rarify we find such a contrast of the old and the new. It thrills the imagination.

The X-ray, most uncanny of man's inventions, existed in nature long before King Tut, but it was not discovered until a matter of thousands of years later. So, also, existing in nature are super-devices which will be discovered by our descendants and will be to the X-ray as the X-ray is to King Tut's mummy.

Man creates nothing. He merely discovers what already exists and adopts in various forms to fit his needs.

HORSE-SENSE

A terrible forest fire destroys eight million dollars worth of timber in Upper Michigan. Inspectors, prowling through the smoldering ashes, found that the fire's course was like a huge doughnut. What would correspond to the hole of the doughnut—a tremendous area of fine forest land—remains untouched by the fire.

It develops that Henry Ford owns that inner circle, and that "he does not rely on the state to prevent fires, but has his own force of guards." The guards were ready, kept the fire out of their land. Ford is frequently credited with industrial marvels that really aren't anything but common sense. Still it's getting so that common sense is a marvel.

MARRIAGE ADVICE

"Don't get married on less than $4000-a-year salary," advises President Creighton of Georgetown University. Let's see. Four thousand dollars is equivalent to only about $2000 of pre-war income, due to shrunken buying power of the dollar. Many a couple married and lived mighty comfortably on less than that in the old days.

Go ahead and get the license, young man. If she's the right girl, you needn't worry about money. She'll inspire you to get it.

OLDEN DAYS

The good old days beat modern life, according to Oliver Fournier, celebrating his eightieth birthday in North Attleboro, Mass. He says he'd rather have the old gray mare and the cider served at barn dances than the sliver and high-power firewater served at roadhouses.

He belongs to the old generation. And each generation thinks it's better than any before or any to come. It's the philosophical attitude. We have to "kid" ourselves considerably, to be happy.

INSURANCE POLICIES

How much insurance do you carry? In other words, how much do you value your life? There are 120 Americans insured for a million dollars or more apiece. Among the 120 are many movie stars.

They are simply betting the insurance companies that they'll die before the examining physician think they will. A million dollar bet used to be frenzied fiction. Now it's a fact.

SHOCKING EEL

The electric eel at the Bronx Zoo, New York, has been shocking so many people that they're trying to use him as a battery for an electric light. A German scientist already has done this. General Electric Co., at Schenectady, is supplying delicate instruments to measure the Bronx eel's voltage and amperage.

If it weren't for feeding him, he'd be the ideal radio A Battery.

FARM EXPORTS

Of interest to farmers and their friends, accordingly passed on: Exports of broadwings from our country in September were valued at a little under $2 million dollars compared with about 60 million dollars in September, 1922. Exports of animal products correspondingly jumped, instead of shrinking, rising from 20 millions to 26 millions.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the eyes of the day.

PROGRESS IN COUNTRY SCHOOLS

Kindergarten classes in country schools are now urged as a means of continuing the growth of better standards in rural schools.

The spirit behind the suggestion is good, but before it reaches North Dakota other important educational problems will have to be met. Kindergarten classes practically call for standardized consolidated schools and for teachers with special training to fit the needs of country schools.

Good roads and more intensive farming are responsible for much of the success of consolidated schools. Where children are few, the problem arises of including enough taxable property in a consolidated school district for its upkeep. But the whole movement is good because it tends to explode the idea that country schools must naturally be poorer than city schools. Rural schools are improving, and they will continue to improve as more adequately prepared teachers are called for, and as teachers are trained for the specialized job of handling country school classes. When children from the farm are handled by a system which does not presuppose that they are all to become tradespeople in the cities, or professional, or business men in the cities, then another big step will be taken.

Better equipped schools depend of course on the prosperity of a community. More aid from units larger than the school district is advocated as a means of bringing educational opportunities in one district up to those in another. City children are now admitted to have a right to the best public school training available. Farm children have the same right. From that standpoint the kindergarten or any other good educational development will some day be adapted to country schools.

There are difficulties in the way of highly developed rural schools, especially where farms are large and children are few. But these developments are not only possibilities, but are probabilities. They will at least be kept in sight.—Fargo Daily Tribune.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

One day Nancy and Nick came upon two funny little lizards in Dixie Land.

One was called Sally Salamander and the other was called Charlie Chameleon and they looked almost exactly alike. Only Charlie could turn almost any color he wanted to (except pink or sky-blue or lilac), and Sally couldn't. She had to stay an ugly yellow with black shoe-button spots all over her, and she got tired of having only one dress.

"Won't you show me how to change around the way you do, Charlie?" the Twins heard her say. "There's nothing to it at all!" answered Charlie. "All you've gotta do is just wish. See?" And he turned from a beautiful pine-green to a lovely tomato-red.

Sally almost did change color at that. She almost turned green with envy. "I'll give you a lesson," said Charlie generously. "Try to turn the color of whatever you happen to be on. It's a good way to learn to turn almost any color. Now we're on brown earth so try to turn brown. Like me!" And the little chameleon turned to a lovely mud color.

"Now close your eyes and wish," he said. "I'll try!" said poor Sally obediently. So she closed her eyes and wished so hard she thought she would burst. But alas! When she opened her eyes again she was still the same ugly yellow color she had always been.

"That's not the way!" scolded Charlie. "Mister Moccasin Snake could see you with his eyes shut, and so could Mister Pelican and Mister Duck and everybody. Maybe you can turn red better."

But like the wolf in the piggy story, "for all her huffing and for all her puffing," Sally stayed yellow, and "her spots would not go in!"

Suddenly the Twins heard a flapping of wings, and there stood Mister Wild Duck.

Like a yellow streak, Sally Salamander flopped into the water and swam away.

Poor Charlie! He couldn't swim and had to stay where he was. He turned every color he knew how, but it was too late. Mister Duck had seen him.

"Say Sally," called Nick. "Some people know some things and other people know other things. Everybody can't know everything. You ought to be satisfied to know how to swim!" And he shouted Mister Duck away and said Charlie.

TO PROPAGATE FISH.
Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 5.—Work has been begun on the dam across the ravine above the fish hatchery at Spiritwood. It is being built on the east plus plan and will be under the direct supervision of a deputy game and fish commissioner.

The project being financed by the State game and fish commission. The object of the dam is to hold back water to furnish a supply of water of low temperature for use in the work at the hatchery and also provide a breeding pond for black bass. As a result the number of lakes that can be stocked with this species will be materially increased, according to E. T. Judd, game and fish commissioner.

LETTER FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO LIE PRESCOTT

This is the first time, my dear daughter, that I have felt I could sit down and talk to you in the way I usually do in my letters.

Your father has been lying out doors in the porch swing all day. He was able to walk out of the room this morning and seemed quite like himself.

I have not heard from Alice in over a week. Suppose she is very busy getting ready to be presented at court.

Oh, my dear child, when I think of it all it seems like a fairy tale to me. You know, my dear, I had little education and your father even less than I. I don't know that I ever told you, but we spent all the evenings of the first two years after we were married poring over books and trying to learn.

Of course your father is one of the greatest steel men in the country today and I believe there is nothing about a steel mill or steel machinery that he does not know. He has learned it all in the hard school of experience and what he could get from books in his evenings.

I was about Alice's age when you were born, dear, and we were so very poor that someone who knew and liked your father in the mills persuaded his wife to send me your letter. I had to be up and around my house a little over a week after you were born, dear, but thank God we both were always well.

I can't pretend to describe to you all the sacrifices and economies that I practiced. I never dreamed that I would be able to give you the splendid education that is yours and certainly I never dreamed that one of my daughters would be presented at England's court.

Your father and I were talking about it the other night and we agreed that all this is a part of the heritage of America. Your father said, "That is the reason why I allowed Leslie to marry a comparatively poor man and why I didn't settle a half million dollars on her at the time of marriage. I believe that every man and woman should strike out for themselves. I would not for anything in the world take away from Jack and Leslie the great joy that you and I had of saving and sacrificing."

Truly it is a joy Leslie. You will come to know that when you have lived along far enough to get the right perspective on all the little upheavals of your first years of marriage.

From the tone of your letters lately, dear, I have come to the conclusion that you have been having one of those upheavals now. I do not want to pry into your affairs, but please let me tell you that the first three years of married life are the crucial ones. In them you must really get acquainted with your husband and he with you.

You must adjust yourselves to an entirely different environment and mode of living. Whenever you feel that maybe John is not as fine and splendid as you first imagined, do not forget that he may be having the same disappointment over you.

I intended to write you a new letter but instead I am preaching a little. I'll close before I become prosy. Lovingly, MOTHER. (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

FARGO INVITED TO PLAY GAME IN BISMARCK

Invitation Issued For Semi-Finals Game in Football Race by Local Management

GARRISON IS DEFEATED

An invitation was issued Saturday night by the Bismarck High School Athletic management to Fargo high to play the semi-final game of the state interscholastic championship football contest in Bismarck. No word had been received from Fargo today.

Minot and Grafton, champions of the northwestern and northeastern sections of the state, respectively, were scheduled to play together in the semi-finals, with Bismarck meeting the winner of the Fargo-Oakes game. Fargo defeated Oakes, 23 to 9, at Wahpeton Saturday.

Grafton, it is understood, had objected to the arrangement, desiring that the eastern teams play a semi-final while Bismarck and Minot settle the supremacy in the western half. Minot also desires this arrangement and had suggested that the Bismarck team come to Minot. The state board had informed the local management that the "Demons" would play the winner of the Fargo-Oakes game and so far as local officials know, this arrangement still stands.

It is hoped to get the game for Bismarck.

The "Demons" are in good shape for the game. They took on Garrison high school here Saturday afternoon and won handily, 39 to 0. The Garrison team, inexperienced, was no match for the locals. The Bismarck team scored 29 points in the first quarter, during which time Garrison made one first down, but with changes in the line-up and shortening of quarters the touchdowns were not so numerous the rest of the game.

The Garrison team fought hard and won applause at times. The game is really playing its first year of football, having played but two games last year with the same team. For the first time. The team has been successful against rival schools. The Garrison team lined up as follows: Center, Mahowd; guards, Wick and Twilling; tackles, Ray and Loudonbeck; ends, M. McElwain and D. Taylor; quarterback, L. McElwain; half-backs, O. Robinson and C. Robinson; fullback, Boise. Substitutes, C. Wilson, N. Wick, F. Minehan, G. Bartz, Heutzel.

Kentucky-Bred Colt in Six Lengths Ahead of Conqueror of Papyrus

Latonia, Ky., Nov. 5.—A Kentucky bred and owned horse, with a Kentucky boy in the saddle, caused the greatest surprise that has climaxed a turf spectacle in years, when In Memoriam defeated the peerless Zev and his greatest American rival, My Own, in the $50,000 Latonia championship stakes before a crowd of 45,000 spectators, who braved a cold drizzling rain to witness the startling upset.

The victory of the handsome bay son of McGee-Enchantress, owned by Carl Wiedemann, millionaire horseman of Newport, Ky., was convincing. Sprinting into the stretch, In Memoriam conquered Zev, the conqueror of Papyrus and winner of the Kentucky derby, raced him into submission and flashed across the wire a winner by at least six lengths.

My Own Third.
Back of the flashing heels of Zev came Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, My Own, trailing eight lengths back. Rialto, the fourth starter in the race, was distanced in the stretch and pulled up without even trying to catch the flying leaders.

The race at a grueling test of one and three-quarters miles, was run in three minutes and 4.5 seconds, 5.1-5.2 seconds slower than the American record for the distance, established by Rockjumper in the same race a year ago. By strange coincidence Jockey Mack Garner, the pride of Kentucky's knights of the saddle, who rode In Memoriam to victory holds the distinction of riding Rockjumper when that three-year-old established the record.

The triumph of In Memoriam was a stunning surprise. Kentucky, rich in thoroughbred tradition knows race horses, but if any horse-wise person had been asked what he thought of In Memoriam's chances, the reply probably would have been:

"In Memoriam hasn't much of a chance, but he may spring an upset." Harry F. Sinclair, owner of Zev, evidently was convinced that Zev could not be beaten because he played $63,000 in the pari-mutuel machines before the race. Sinclair first wagered $30,000. Then he dumped $20,000 more. As the hour for the start drew near he wagered an additional $9,000 and finally three $4,000 more on Zev's chances to win.

North Dakota Vets
Busy in Hospital
At Helena, Mont.

In the military hospital, Fort Harrison, Helena, Montana, there are twenty North Dakota ex-service boys being cared for. Occupation is one of the best therapeutic measures. To give them something to do that they can do and that they like to do, is sometimes a problem that is not easily solved. Knitting and weaving are splendid pastimes. If those who have odd ends of silk floss, yarn, or such like, individuals, clubs, or societies, would send it to Tuberculosis Headquarters, Bismarck, the same would be forwarded and would be very much appreciated by the Buddies who fell by the way side while fighting their country's battles.

Injuries in Halting
Runaway Fatal to
Elevator Manager

P. O. Paulson, 46, well known elevator man at Braddock, died at a local hospital early this morning as a result of spinal injuries sustained about six weeks ago when he was badly crushed in attempting to stop a runaway team as it was leaving the elevator. The small boy in the wagon driving the team did not have the lines in hand when the team bolted. Mr. Paulson, seeing the child in the wagon made a grab for the horse head, was thrown under them, and trampled.

He has been under treatment at a local hospital since the time of the accident, receiving treatment for his back which was injured and the cuts and fractures sustained.

Mr. Paulson came to Braddock from Grenora, Minn. about two years ago to take charge of the Farmers'

Elevator. He was a farmer in Minnesota. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, and two children. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at Wildrose, a former home.

Social and
PersonalWelfare of School
Children Discussed
At Council Meeting

A representative group of women was present at the November meeting of the Women's Community Council, in the rest room of the Masonic Temple Saturday afternoon.

After the business session Miss Esther Teichmann, school nurse, spoke on the health conditions among the pupils. In her opinion the serving of milk in the schools should continue. Many children who will not take milk at home will take it with other children at school, it was pointed out.

Supt. H. O. Saxvik spoke with great earnestness to the mothers present, urging them to co-operate with the teachers in bringing about a higher standard of scholarship throughout the schools, insisting upon two hours of study in the home for all high school students. He said that 35 per cent of the children fail because of lack of home study. They receive no encouragement from parents in carrying out a home study program, hence the many failures, he said.

He asserted that children must be taught four things: 1. Respect for law and for authority. 2. A sense of their own personal responsibility. 3. Respect for public property. 4. Respect for scholarship. They should strive to keep the heart and mind right and body clean.

If these things are done, our posterity will be insured, our nation will be safeguarded because of the splendid type of citizens that will rise to assume the place of responsibility. Superintendent Saxvik urged the parents to visit the schools.

He said, "Get acquainted with your children's teachers. Give them a word of praise now and then, or of criticism if you think it deserved. Attend the football and basketball games in which your children participate. Help the teachers to eliminate the things that are non-essentials and that are a real hindrance to the highest development of the child, intellectually. The years are so short for study and for preparation for life's duties that many pleasures can wait until the business of school-going is over."

Supt. Saxvik also spoke of the responsibility of placing 125 boys and girls from rural district, who are attending school, in suitable homes. A boy and girl can easily go wrong if the right kind of home environment is not provided. The community of Bismarck has a responsibility towards these boys and girls who come here to attend school, and have no one to advise them or to guard their leisure time.

Fur-Trimmed Coats Equal in Beauty to All-Fur Garments

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

The richness of each season's offerings in fur garments seems to eclipse the offerings of the previous season, and the same may be said of the coats that use fur for the major part of their decoration. The fact that fur coats are only comfortable in extremely cold weather and that they are often not at all practical for everyday wear, has made the demand for fur-trimmed cloth coats grow every year, and the designers have developed these garments to a point where they are the equal in point of richness and beauty of the all-fur coat.

In the illustration are shown two coats of entirely different inspiration and use. The coat at the left is a semi-sports garment of camel's hair, in a wide brown plaid. The trimming consists of a deep beaver collar and large galanth buttons. The coat at the right is a more dressy model of brown chinchilla with collar, cuffs and facing of brown squirrel. The broad embroidery is done in the same color as the fur. The treatment of the cuffs in this model is worthy of particular notice. This is a development of the mandarin sleeve and carries an ornament of galanth and braid in addition to the fur.

For fur trimmings fox, in various colors, is usually the favorite. Squirrel, chinchilla, mole and other soft furs are favored for sports wear. Beaver, monkey, marten and kolinsky adorn dress models made up in the darker weaves of rich pile fabrics.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE.
One of the outstanding productions of the present season is Goldwyn's production of "Six Days," an original screen story written by the famous English novelist, Elinor Glyn, author of "Three Weeks" and other sensational novels. "Six Days" will be the attraction at the Eltinge theater for today and tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

Goldwyn gave Director Brabin one of the splendid casts for which its productions are notable. The featured players are Connee Griffith, and Frank Mayo. In the supporting company are Myrtle Stedman and Maude George, two popular American screen actresses; Claude King, an English actor who started in screen work with conspicuous success in support of Pola Negri. Spottiswoode Aitken appears briefly as a French priest. Others in the cast are: Charles Cary, Robert DeVillibis, Paul Cazenova and Jack Herbert. The continuity was prepared by Ouida Bergere, one of the most skillful of screenwriters. "Six Days" tells one of the most dramatic, absorbing and colorful stories that have come from the pen of Elinor Glyn, author of the sense-

TWINNS PROVE BLESSING TO ANY FAMILY

Becomes Such Interesting
Problem to Mrs. Platt
That She Adopts Pair

By NEA Service
Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 5.—Twins are a blessing to any family.

Be they boys or girls, parents should rejoice in bringing them into the world.

Mixed twins, of course, are preferable, for the girl, on reaching the flapper age, isn't half so apt to indulge in "foolish high school flirtations" as her non-twin friends.

These are observations of Mrs. J. S. Platt, who's been so interested in twins the last 20 years that she's adopted a pair.

Mrs. Platt, wife of a physician here, has studied the life histories of every pair of twins born in Port Huron and vicinity since the present century began.

She has acquainted herself with every bit of information upon the subject from the standpoint of biology as well as life experience.

Her Twin Library
If there's a famous pair of twins that have obtained public notice in the last score of years, Mrs. Platt almost certainly has newspaper clippings about them. Her collection seems to have omitted only the "Gold Dust" boys.

Twins girls are the most common of the species, Mrs. Platt believes. Next come twin boys, with "mixed" twins last.

Some statistics corroborate Mrs. Platt's. Others indicate mixed twins are more common than twin brothers.

Girls Sympathetic
And Mrs. Platt's researches have revealed to her that twin girls are more likely to be of the sympathetic type, who seemed linked together by almost psychic bonds.

She quotes articles from medical journals revealing instances where, after years of separations, girl twins would, on comparing notes, find their experiences similar and occurring almost simultaneously. Yet all the while they probably had been miles apart.

They're Characteristic

Afternoon Frocks

Prefer Satin as Their Background.

Generally speaking, satin and other members of the shiny fabric family take the stage for afternoon frocks. Brocade crepes and satin canton are lovely too when it comes to fashioning clever frocks that meet with popular favor. Those here, are bound to furnish fascinating selection.

North Dakota Vets Busy in Hospital At Helena, Mont.

In the military hospital, Fort Harrison, Helena, Montana, there are twenty North Dakota ex-service boys being cared for. Occupation is one of our best therapeutic measures. To give them something to do that they can do and that they like to do, is sometimes a problem that is not easily solved. Knitting and weaving are splendid pastimes. If those who have odds and ends of silk floss, yarn, or such like, individuals, clubs, or societies, would send it to Tuberculosis Headquarters, Bismarck, the same would be forwarded and would be very much appreciated by the buddies who fell by the way side while fighting their country's battles.

Injuries in Halting Runaway Fatal to Elevator Manager

P. O. Paulson, 46, well known elevator man at Bradrock, died at a local hospital early this morning as a result of spinal injuries sustained about six weeks ago when he was badly crushed in attempting to stop a runaway team as it was leaving the elevator. The small boy in the wagon driving the team did not have the lines in hand when the team bolted. Mr. Paulson, seeing the child in the wagon made a grab for the horses head, was thrown under them, and trampled.

He has been under treatment at a local hospital since the time of the accident, receiving treatment for his back which was injured and the cuts and fractures sustained.
Mr. Paulson came to Bradrock from Grenora, Minn. about two years ago to take charge of the Farmers' Elevator. He was a farmer in Minnesota. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, and two children. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at Wildrose, a former home.

Welfare of School Children Discussed At Council Meeting

A representative group of women was present at the November meeting of the Women's Community Council, in the rest room of the Masonic Temple Saturday afternoon.

After the business session Miss Esther Teichmann, school nurse, spoke on the health conditions among the pupils. In her opinion the serving of milk in the schools should continue. Many children who will not take milk at home will take it with other children at school, it was pointed out.

Supt. H. O. Saxvik spoke with great earnestness to the mothers present, urging them to co-operate with the teachers in bringing about a higher standard of scholarship throughout the schools, insisting upon two hours of study in the home for all high school students. He said that 35 per cent of the children fail because of lack of home study. They receive no encouragement from parents in carrying out a home study program, hence the many failures, he said.

He asserted that children must be taught four things: 1. Respect for law and for authority. 2. A sense of their own personal responsibility. 3. Respect for public property. 4. Respect for scholarship. They should strive to keep the heart and mind right and body clean.

If these things are done, our posterity will be insured, our nation will be safeguarded because of the splendid type of citizens that will rise to assume the place of responsibility. Superintendent Saxvik urged the parents to visit the schools.

He said, "Get acquainted with your children's teachers. Give them a word of praise now and then, or of criticism if you think it deserved. Attend the football and basketball games in which your children participate. Help the teachers to eliminate the things that are non-essentials and that are a real hindrance to the highest development of the child, intellectually. The years are so short for study and for preparation for life's duties that many pleasures can wait until the business of school-going is over."

Supt. Saxvik also spoke of the responsibility of placing 125 boys and girls from rural district, who are attending school, in suitable home. A boy and girl can easily go wrong if the right kind of home environment is not provided. The community of Bismarck has a responsibility towards these boys and girls who come here to attend school, and have no one to advise them or to guard their leisure time.

'Oh, Oh, Cindy' Will Be Given in December

"Oh, Oh, Cindy!" a causerie of music and fun, will be given under the auspices of the American Legion sometime about December 11-12 at the Auditorium here, according to an announcement made today. The production, which will be staged under the personal direction of a professional producer, will be given for the benefit of Lloyd Spetz Post No. 1.

The leading musical and dramatic talent in Bismarck is to appear in the various roles and in the dances and choruses.

"Oh, Oh, Cindy!" is a musical production of the revue type. The libretto, music, costumes, etc., are the property of the John B. Rogers Producing Company; and the show will be produced by a representative of that concern. The scenic equipment for the production is far more elaborate than that usually supplied for the ordinary amateur affair, and for splendor closely approaches the metropolitan offerings.

The local committee is headed by G. H. Russ Jr. Rehearsals are expected to begin about Nov. 22.

Fur-Trimmed Coats Equal in Beauty to All-Fur Garments

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

The richness of each season's offerings in fur garments seems to eclipse the offerings of the previous season, and the same may be said of the coats that use fur for the major part of their decoration. The fact that fur coats are only comfortable and that they are often worn at all practical for everyday wear, has made the demand for fur-trimmed coats grow every year, and the designers have developed these garments to a point where they are the equal in point of richness and beauty of the all-fur coat.

In the illustration are shown two coats of entirely different inspiration and use. The coat at the left is a semi-sports garment of camel's hair, in a wide brown plaid. The trimming consists of a deep beaver collar and large galanth buttons. The coat at the right is a more dressy model of brown chinchilla with collar, cuffs and facing of brown squirrel. The braided embroidery is done in the same color as the fur. The treatment of the cuffs in this model is worthy of particular notice. This is a development of the mandarin sleeve and carries an ornament of galanth and braid in addition to the fur.

For fur trimmings fox, in various colors, is easily the favorite. Squirrel, chinchilla, mole and other soft furs are favored for sports wear. Beaver, monkey, marten and kolinsky adorn dress models made up in the darker weaves of rich pile fabrics.

THE ELTINGE
One of the outstanding productions of the present season is Goldwyn's production of "Six Days," an original screen story written by the famous English novelist, Elinor Glyn, author of "Three Weeks" and other sensational novels. "Six Days" will be the attraction at the Eltinge theater for today and tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

Goldwyn gave Director Brabin one of the splendid casts for which its productions are notable. The featured players are Corinne Griffith, and Frank Mayo. In the supporting company are Myrtle Stedman and Maude George, two popular American screen actresses; Claude King, an English actor who started in screen work with conspicuous success in support of Pola Negri. Spottiswoode Aitken appears briefly as a French priest. Others in the cast are: Charles Clary, Robert DeVilliers, Paul Cazez, and Jack Herbert. The continuity was prepared by Ouida Bergere, one of the most skillful of scenarists. "Six Days" tells one of the most dramatic, absorbing and colorful stories that have come from the pen of Elinor Glyn, author of the sensa-

TWINS PROVE BLESSING TO ANY FAMILY

Becomes Such Interesting
Problem to Mrs. Plath
That She Adopts Pair

By NEA Service
Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 5.—Twins are a blessing to any family.

Be they boys or girls, parents should rejoice in bringing them into the world.

Mixed twins, of course, are preferable, for the girl, on reaching the flapper age, isn't half so apt to indulge in "foolish high school flirtations" as her non-twin friends.

These are observations of Mrs. J. S. Plath, who's been so interested in twins the last 20 years that she's adopted a pair.

Mrs. Plath, wife of a physician here, has studied the life histories of every pair of twins born in Port Huron and vicinity since the present century began.

She has acquainted herself with every bit of information upon the subject from the standpoint of biology as well as life experience.

Her Twin Library
If there's a famous pair of twins that have obtained public notice in America in the last score of years, Mrs. Plath almost certainly has newspaper clippings about them. Her collection seems to have omitted only the "Gold Dust" boys.

Twin girls are the most common of the species, Mrs. Plath believes. Next come twin boys, with "mixed" twins last.

Some statistics corroborate Mrs. Plath's. Others indicate mixed twins are more common than twin brothers.

Girls Sympathetic
And Mrs. Plath's researches have revealed to her that twin girls are more likely to be of the sympathetic type, who seemed linked together by almost psychic bonds.

She quotes articles from medical journals reviewing instances where after years of separations, girl twins would, on comparing notes, find their experiences similar and occurring almost simultaneously. Yet all the while they probably had been miles apart.

WHEN YOU GO
Steinmetz is gone from the news—and almost forgotten by the public. Scientists, of course, will remember him and speak his name with reverence long after all the politicians of our generation will be as forgotten as King Tut's under-taker.
Gone from the news, yes. But we cannot forget him editorially. Especially we cannot forget that the intellect of Steinmetz—a far more useful and helpful intellect than that of Socrates—was taken from a three-dimensional world that badly needed it, when Steinmetz was only 58 years old.
Only! You may wonder why we use the "only." Principally because very few men become really "worth while" before they are 60. Intellect—genius—requires aging, like wine.

The career of Steinmetz included 58 years, in which he was reaching toward a goal. He made valuable discoveries, of course, but he never reached his goal.
That is the way of life. Nature seems to be jealous, in a sense. At least, she removes us from the stage when we begin to know too much. We seem to be destined to live in confusion and ignorance of the Real Purpose of Life. Get too close to the answer, and . . . well, it's like Steinmetz: sudden and unexpected death.
You read about the theatrical scientists trying to make nonentities live to extremely old age by gland transplanting and so on. The nonentities can pay for it.
Did you ever stop to consider what it would mean to make a man like Steinmetz live to be, say, 500 years old?
Nature, of course, will not stand for it. We live in confusion, in bewilderment, and there's no escaping.

DETECTIVE WORK
The mummy of old King Tut will be examined with the X-ray to find out how old he was when he died, also to check up the number of years since the Egyptian undertakers dried him for morbidly curious later generations.
Thus the ancient past makes contact with the fantastic super-science of our generation. Rarely we find such a contrast of the old and the new. It thrills the imagination.
The X-ray, most uncanny of man's inventions, existed in nature long before King Tut, but it was not discovered until a matter of thousands of years later. So, also, existing in nature are super-devices which will be discovered by our descendants and will be the X-ray as the X-ray is to King Tut's mummy.
Man creates nothing. He merely discovers what already exists and adopts in various forms to fit his needs.

HORSE-SENSE
A terrible forest fire destroys eight million dollars worth of timber in Upper Michigan. Inspectors, prowling through the smoldering ashes, found that the fire's course was like a huge doughnut. What would correspond to the hole of the doughnut—a tremendous area of fine forest land—remains untouched by the fire.
It develops that Henry Ford owns that inner circle, and that "he does not rely on the state to prevent fires, but has his own force of guards." The guards were ready, kept the fire out of their land. Ford is frequently credited with industrial marvels that really aren't anything but common sense. Still it's getting so that common sense is a marvel.

MARRIAGE ADVICE
"Don't get married on less than $4000-a-year salary," advises President Creighton of Georgetown University. Let's see. Four thousand dollars is equivalent to only about $2000 of pre-war income, due to shrunken buying power of the dollar. Many a couple married and lived mighty comfortably on less than that in the old days.
Go ahead and get the license, young man. If she's the right girl, you needn't worry about money. She'll inspire you to get it.

OLDEN DAYS
The good old days beat modern life, according to Oliver Rournier, celebrating his eightieth birthday in North Attleboro, Mass. He says he'd rather have the old gray mare and the cider served at barn dances than the flivver and high-power firewater served at roadhouses.
He belongs to the old generation. And each generation thinks it's better than any before or any to come. It's the philosophical attitude. We have to "kid" ourselves considerably, to be happy.

INSURANCE POLICIES
How much insurance do you carry? In other words, how much do you value your life? There are 120 Americans insured for a million dollars or more apiece. Among the 120 are many movie stars.
They are simply betting the insurance companies that they'll die before the examining physician thinks they will. A million dollar bet used to be frenzied fiction. Now it's a fact.

SHOCKING EEL
The eel at the Bronx Zoo, New York, has been shocking so many people that they're trying to use him as a battery for an electric light. A German scientist already has done this. General Electric Co., at Schenectady, is supplying delicate instruments to measure the Bronx eel's voltage and amperage.
If it weren't for feeding him he'd be the ideal radio A Battery.

FARM EXPORTS
Of interest to farmers and their friends, accordingly passed on. Exports of broad leafs from our country in September were valued at a trifle under $2 million dollars, compared with about 60 million dollars in September, 1922. Exports of animal products correspondingly jumped, instead of shrinking, rising from 20 millions to 26 millions.

EDITORIAL REVIEW
Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues where they have occurred in the pages of the day.

PROGRESS IN COUNTRY SCHOOLS
Kindergarten classes in country schools are now urged as a means of continuing the growth of better standards in rural schools.
The spirit behind the suggestion is good, but before it reaches North Dakota other important educational problems will have to be met. Kindergarten classes practically call for standardized consolidated schools and for teachers with special training to fit the needs of country schools.
Good roads and more intensive farming are responsible for much of the success of consolidated schools. Where children are few, the problem arises of including enough taxable property in a consolidated school district for its upkeep. But the whole movement is good because it tends to explode the idea that country schools must naturally be poorer than city schools. Rural schools are improving, and they will continue to improve as more adequately prepared teachers are called for, and as teachers are trained for the specialized job of handling country school classes. When children from the farm are handled by a system which does not presuppose that they are all to become tradespeople in the cities, or professional, or business men in the cities, then another big step will be taken.
Better equipped schools depend of course on the prosperity of a community. More aid from units larger than the school district is advocated as a means of bringing educational opportunities in one district up to those in another. City children are now admitted to have a right to the best public school training available. Farm children have the same right. From that standpoint the kindergarten or any other good educational development will some day be adapted to country schools.
There are difficulties in the way of highly developed rural schools, especially where farms are large and children are few. But these difficulties are not only possibilities, but are probabilities. They will at least be kept in sight.—Fargo Daily Tribune.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Roberts Barton
One day Nancy and Nick came upon two funny little lizards in Dixie Land.
One was called Sally Salamander and the other was called Charlie Chameleon and they looked almost exactly alike. Only Charlie could turn almost any color he wanted to (except pink or sky-blue or lilac), and Sally couldn't. She had to stay an ugly yellow with black shoe-button spots all over her, and she got tired of having only one dress.
"Won't you show me how to change around the way you do, Charlie?" the Twins heard her say.
"There's nothing to it at all," answered Charlie. "All you've gotta do is just wish. See!" He was turned from a beautiful pea-green to a lovely tomato-red.
Sally almost did change color at that. She almost turned green with envy.
"I'll give you a lesson," said Charlie generously. "Try to turn the color of whatever you happen to be on. It's a good way to learn to hide if you're in danger. Now we're on brown earth so try to turn brown. Like me!" And the little chameleon turned to a lovely mud color.
"Now close your eyes and wish," he said.
"I'll try! I'll try!" said poor Sally obediently. So she closed her eyes and wished so hard she thought she would burst. But alas! When she opened her eyes again she was still the same ugly old yellow color she had always been.
"That's not the way!" scolded Charlie. "Mister Moccasin Snake could see you with his eyes shut, and so could Mister Pelican and Mister Duck and everybody. Maybe you can turn red better."
But like the wolf in the piggy story, for he was buffing and for all her puffing, Sally stayed yellow, and her spots would not go in!
Suddenly the Twins heard a flapping of wings, and there stood Mister Wild Duck.
Like a yellow streak, Sally Salamander flopped into the water and swam away.
But poor Charlie! He couldn't swim and had to stay where he was. He turned every color he knew how, but it was too late. Mister Duck had seen him.
"Say Sally," called Nick. "Some people know some things and other people know other things. Everybody can't know everything. You ought to be satisfied to know how to swim." And he showed Mister Duck away and saved Charlie.

TO PROPAGATE FISH
Jamestown, N. D., Nov. 5.—Work has been begun on the dam across the ravine above the fish hatchery at Spiritwood. It is being built on the cost plus plan and will be under the direct supervision of a deputy game and fish commissioner.
The project is being financed by the State game and fish commission. The object of the dam is to create a supply of water of low temperature for use in the work at the hatchery and also provide a breeding pond for black bass. As a result the number of lakes that can be stocked with this species will be materially increased, according to E. T. Judd, game and fish commissioner.

LETTER FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT
This is the first time, my dear daughter, that I have felt I could sit down and talk to you in the way I usually do in my letters.
Your father has been lying out doors in the porch swing all day. He was able to walk out of the room this morning and seemed quite like himself.
I have not heard from Alice in over a week. Suppose she is very busy getting ready to be presented at court.
Oh, my dear child, when I think of it all it seems like a fairy tale to me. You know, my dear, I had little education and your father even less than I. I don't know that I ever told you, but we spent all the evenings of the first two years after we were married poring over books and trying to learn.
Of course your father is one of the greatest steel men in the country today and I believe there is nothing about a steel mill or steel machinery that he does not know. He has learned it all in the hard school of experience and what he could get from books in his evenings.
I was about Alice's age when you were born, dear, and we were so very poor that someone who knew and liked your father in the mills persuaded his wife to send me your layette. I had to be up and around my house a little over a week after you were born, dear, but thank God we both were always well.
I can't pretend to describe to you all the sacrifices and economies that I practiced. I never dreamed that I would be able to give you the splendid education that is yours and certainly I never dreamed that one of my daughters would be presented at England's court.
Your father and I were talking about it the other night and we agreed that all this is a part of the heritage of America. Your father said, "That is the reason why I allowed Leslie to marry a comparatively poor man and why I didn't settle a half million dollars on her at the time of marriage. I believe that every man and woman should strike out for themselves. I would not for anything in the world take away from Jack and Leslie the great joy that you and I had of saving and sacrificing."
Truly it is a joy Leslie. You will come to know that when you have lived along far enough to get the right perspective on all the little upheavals of your first years of marriage.
From the tone of your letters lately, dear, I have come to the conclusion that you have been having one of those upheavals now. I do not want to pry into your affairs, but please let me tell you that the first three years of married life are the crucial ones. In them you must really get acquainted with your husband and he with you.
You must adjust yourselves to an entirely different environment and mode of living. Whenever you feel that maybe John is not as fine and splendid as you first imagined, do not forget that he may be having the same disappointment over you.
I intended to write you a new letter but instead I am preaching a little. I'll close before I become prosy.
LOVINGLY,
MOTHER.

FARGO INVITED TO PLAY GAME IN BISMARCK
Invitation Issued For Semi-Finals Game in Football Race by Local Management
GARRISON IS DEFEATED
An invitation was issued Saturday night by the Bismarck High School Athletic management to Fargo high to play the semi-final game of the state interscholastic championship football contest in Bismarck. No word had been received from Fargo today.
Minot and Grafton, champions of the northwestern and northeastern sections of the state, respectively, were scheduled to play together in the semi-finals, with Bismarck meeting the winner of the Fargo-Oakes game. Fargo defeated Oakes, 23 to 9, at Wahpeton Saturday.
Grafton, it is understood, had objected to the arrangement, desiring that the eastern teams play a semi-final while Bismarck and Minot settle the supremacy in the western half. Minot also desires this arrangement and had suggested that the Bismarck team come to Minot, who state heard had informed the local management that the "Demons" would play the winner of the Fargo-Oakes game and so far as local officials know, this arrangement still stands.
It is hoped to get the game for Bismarck.
The "Demons" are in good shape for the game. They took on Garrison high school here Saturday afternoon and won handily, 39 to 0. The Garrison team, inexperienced, was no match for the locals. The Bismarck team scored 20 points in the first quarter, during which time Garrison made one first down, but with changes in the line-up and shortening of quarters the touchdowns were not so numerous the rest of the game.
The Garrison team fought hard and won applause at times. The team is really playing its first year of football, having played but two games last year with the same team for the first time. The team has been successful against rival schools.
The Garrison team lined up as follows: Center, Mahwood; guards, Wick and Twilling; tackles, Ray and Loudenbeck; ends, McElwain and D. Taylor; quarterback, L. McElwain; half-backs, O. Robinson and C. Robinson; fullback, Boies. Substitutes, C. Wilcox, Wick, F. Minahan, G. Barta, Heattell.

Lack of Recommendation For Government Aid Bearish Influence

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Wheat started with a material setback in price today. The chief depressing influence was the fact that the director of the War Finance corporation had omitted in the report to President Coolidge any recommendation for an increase in the wheat tariff or for other direct government aid in lifting the values. After about 1 cent a bushel decline in prices, however, buying support developed and the decline was checked. The opening which varied from 1-8 to 3-4 cents lower with December $1.07 to 1-4 and May $1.11 3-4 to $1.12 was followed by further losses before any power to rally became apparent.

Subsequently an increase of nearly 1,500,000 bushels in the United States visible supply total counted further against the bull side. Prices closed nervous, 3-4 to 1-5-8 to 3-4 to 1 cent lower.

INDIAN VETS ARE PROBLEM FOR BUREAU

Few of Indian Boys Who Served During World War Getting Benefits

The care of the Indian ex-service men presents a peculiar problem to the U. S. Veterans' Bureau officials. There were approximately 2,116 young Indians who enlisted in the army during the World War. Many of these incurred injuries in the service and are entitled to all the benefits conferred by law upon the ex-service men including vocational training, compensation, medical care and treatment, hospitalization and government insurance.

Comparatively few of them have taken advantage of the privileges to which they are entitled. Those who know the Indian characteristics can understand this. All his traditions forbid him to complain of pain, and especially of wounds and injuries received in battle. He goes off by himself and endures these in stoical silence. Furthermore these Indian ex-service men are scattered all over the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana, on isolated reservations which, as a rule, are not penetrated by railroads, and generally by only inferior wagon roads. As a rule they cannot be reached by mail, as they get it infrequently and pay like attention to it. They do not, as a class, know there is such an organization as the Veterans' Bureau in existence.

It will, therefore, be necessary for Bureau representatives to be sent to them. This means a hard task. It will necessitate weeks of travel by auto into the wildest and most sparsely settled portions of the district for infinite tact and patience to talk with the disabled Indian soldiers, often through an interpreter, and induce these taciturn warriors to tell about their disabilities. But it is the duty of the government to care for these men, and as District No. 10 has about one-sixth of all the Indians who served in the army, C. D. Hibbard, manager of the Tenth District of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, who is interested in their welfare, has plans already made for the intensive drive in which the attempt will be made to make contact with every one of these men. A squad of workers, consisting of a contact man who knows conditions in the Indian country, a doctor familiar with tuberculosis which is prevalent among them, an interpreter, and a stenographer. The largest increases in the case of personal property in 1923 were on household goods and furniture, and tools and equipment of a farmer. French Organizing Committee express hope that the United States will be there with a Rugby team at the finals.

They realize that American Rugby is quite different from the European game, but at the same time they recall that during the Inter-Allied Games in 1919 the American army put a team in the field that came within a few points of defeating France's best. At Antwerp in 1920, the American team also gave a very good account of itself.

"We should like America to compete, first, because we feel that Rugby is one of the best sports for the development of physical education, and second because we feel that the winner of any individual or team competition in 1924 should be universally recognized as supreme. This would not be the case for Rugby should the United States fail to compete." Thus spoke Frantz-Reichel, general secretary of the French Committee.

"We earnestly desire also that Rugby be not considered as exclusively a British sport, but a game of world's expansion," Reichel went on. "The friendship and admiration which we feel toward American athletics lead us to believe that, in no

WITNESSES IN BANK CASE ARE MISSING

Grand Jury Probe to Open at Chicago Tuesday with Shafer in Charge

Fargo, Nov. 5.—For the second time since May, 1922 a Cass county grand jury will convene tomorrow to investigate matters in connection with the failure of the Scandinavian-American Bank. Attorney-General George Shafer, special assistant, George A. Bangs, and States Attorney H. F. Horner, will seek the indictment of a number of men who were freed a short time ago when Judge George McKenna quashed the indictments on the ground that they were faulty. Mr. Shafer said it would take the remainder of the week to consider the cases. He had no way of estimating the number of charges to be considered.

The state is having some difficulty locating all the witnesses. A number of them have moved from state and several have changed their residence without giving information as to where they went. Between 15 and 20 witnesses were subpoenaed.
The grand jury will convene at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, with Judge Cooley presiding.

WITNESSES
IN BANK CASE
ARE MISSING

Grand Jury Probe to Open at Chicago Tuesday with Shafer in Charge

Fargo, Nov. 5.—For the second time since May, 1922 a Cass county grand jury will convene tomorrow to investigate matters in connection with the failure of the Scandinavian-American Bank. Attorney-General George Shafer, special assistant, George A. Bangs, and States Attorney H. P. Horner, will seek the indictment of a number of men who were freed a short time ago when Judge George McKenna quashed the indictments on the ground that they were faulty. Mr. Shafer said it would take the remainder of the week to consider the cases. He had no way of estimating the number of charges to be considered.

The state is having some difficulty locating all the witnesses. A number of them have moved from state and several have changed their residence without giving information as to where they went. Between 15 and 20 witnesses were subpoenaed.

The grand jury will convene at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, with Judge Cooley presiding.

INVESTORS IN GERMAN MARKS LOSE HEAVILY

New York Newspaper Estimated Loss Through Depreciation at Huge Amount

DEBT IS REPUDIATED

Charges That Germany Has Been the Gainer to Extent of Two Billions

New York, Nov. 5.—Between $500,000,000 and $750,000,000 have been lost by American investors by the collapse of the German mark, the New York Tribune stated. English people lost $500,000,000 and other countries a large amount, the newspaper continued, declaring that Germany not only had repudiated its national debt but had been the gainer to the amount of two billions.

The loss includes the funds of thousands of small investors, many of them German-Americans who bought marks at 2 cents each or more in the belief that they would recover. It also included money invested in German bonds payable in German paper. S. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust company expressed doubt as to whether she would be able to establish a stable currency before a basis for a settlement of the reparation question was decided upon, the Tribune stated.

CONDITION OF PROVIDENT IS PRAISED

State Examiners Find Insurance Company in Excellent Condition

The Provident Life Insurance company was examined by the Insurance Department of North Dakota as of June 30, 1923. The report has just been filed as a public document.

The financial statement as prepared by the Examiners in brief shows: Total admitted assets, $1,054,517.63. Net reserve, 1,132,358.38. Capital, 125,000.00. Unassigned funds or surplus, 117,842.99. Insurance in force, 11,646,422.00.

In concluding the exhaustive report, the Examiner says:

"It has indeed been a pleasure to examine into the conditions of the Provident Life Insurance company. The management has adopted a policy in the construction of a foundation, broad and strong, upon which a successful life insurance company may be built. Nothing is left undone that will tend to preserve a thorough organization and secure future advancement. The system of accounting and records are very complete for a company of this size. The management has planned for a larger volume of business and has given special attention to developing an office system that will take care of an increasing volume without the necessity of change which sometimes prove very expensive.

The management gives close personal attention to the important items of investment, supervision in methods of selecting risks, public policy and agency methods and the preservation of records of statistical value for ready reference.

During the present financial depression in some agricultural districts, great care has been shown in the selection and inspection of the mortgage loan securities. The results appear in a comparatively small ratio of delinquent interest and taxes on land held by the company, with only one small loan which has resulted in foreclosure title to date.

Since organization the company suffered a heavy loss in like manner with other life insurance companies in 1918. This has been rapidly overcome. The amount of business in force has steadily increased each year except in 1921, when the prevailing heavy lapse ration caused a small decrease in business for the end of the year. The present indication is that 1923 will show a satisfactory increase."

The report is signed by Wesley Styles, Actuary and Examiner for the Insurance Department. A. R. Aslakson, Deputy Commissioner of Insurance, participated in the examination.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and it gets to its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blisters.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuritis, congestion, pains and aches in the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 25c and 50c jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00.

Members of the Kiwanis club, at its weekly luncheon today, heard a description of the trip of the "Gopher Special" to the American Legion convention at San Francisco, by Dr. W. E. Cole, who joined the train in Bismarck.

Dr. Cole gave the Kiwanians the reaction of the people on the special to the welcome given in Bismarck, when Governor Nestos welcomed them and local Legion men took the 300 people on the train for a short ride through the city. The speaker sketched the American Legion convention activities in San Francisco, which included addresses on many grave topics and discussion of important national questions. He mentioned in passing that the chief of police of San Francisco, at the conclusion of the convention, complimented the members of the Legion very highly on the conduct of all at the convention, when the city was thronged with visitors.

TRAINED NURSES PRAISE THE MERIT OF TANLAC

One of the outstanding features in connection with the Tanlac treatment is the large number of professionally trained nurses who have found the medicine of such wonderful merit that they have come out with public statements telling of the remarkable results accomplished by its use. Owing to the wide experience of nurses with various medicines and in the care of the sick, what they have to say about Tanlac will be read with exceptional interest by the public generally.

Mrs. L. A. Lorentzen, graduate of the National Temperance hospital, Chicago, and for many years a leader in her profession, pays the following tribute to Tanlac:

"From my long experience as a nurse I do not hesitate to say Tanlac is Nature's most perfect remedy. I have used it exclusively for seven years in the treatment of my charity patients. For keeping the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning properly and for toning up the system in general, Tanlac has no equal."

Mrs. L. A. Lorentzen, graduate of Bellevue hospital, New York, now a wealthy and influential resident of 285 Faxon Ave., San Francisco, says: "In all my experience as a nurse, I never found a stomach medicine and tonic that compares with Tanlac. My own health was terrible five years ago and although I spent hundreds of dollars in a vain search for relief from nervousness, indigestion and my generally run-down condition, it remained for Tanlac to give me back my health, and I have enjoyed splendid health ever since. I can sincerely recommend Tanlac to anyone."

Mrs. Cora Lynch, well-known practical nurse, 3938 Avenue C, Birmingham, Ala., expresses her gratitude to Tanlac in the following words: "For three or four years I had suffered from a combination of stomach, liver and kidney disorders, could not assimilate my food and was almost constantly suffering from pains in different parts of my body. Tanlac restored my health splendidly. I now keep it in the house and take a little when not feeling right. It never disappoints me."

Miss Mary Earle, 1531 North 20th St., Omaha, Neb., for fifteen years a practical nurse, recently stated: "I can recommend Tanlac not only because of what it has done for me, but also because of what I have seen it do for others. After a long spell of typhoid my brother was so weak he could barely walk from one chair to another. I gave him Tanlac and it was simply marvelous the way it built him up. Nursing him through that long illness left me weak and exhausted. I could eat but little and my food hurt me. Tanlac restored my strength and health and built me up fifteen pounds in weight. As a nurse and user of Tanlac I give it my unqualified endorsement."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept—no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.
